ANTIOCH WINS CLOSE GAME AT BURLINGTON

Play Fourth Game of Series With Lake Villa at Waukegan Sunday

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Antioch won the second straight game of the season from Burlington on Sunday when they defeated the Wisconsin nine 5 to 4 after a nine-inning struggle.

A perfect "squeeze play" turned defeat into victory for Antioch. The fateful play came in the eighth inning. Burlington was leading 4 to 3 when Antioch came to bat. Rogers walked and scored when Bailey pasted a smashing triple, tying the score. Ehnert made a beautiful bunt while Bailey slid home with the winning run.

Score by innings:
Antioch 2 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 5
Burlington 0 0 0 0 3 1 0 0 4

Lake Villa met defeat at the hands of Glenview at the latter's park, 3 to 1, in a pitchers' battle between Eddie Stack, former Cub pitcher, and Bixby. Both sides got seven hits, made two errors, while both pitchers struck out six men.

Lake Villa has booked the Glenview outfit for another battle to be played at the opponent's grounds on Sept. 16.

The game was the best that had been played at the Glenview diamond this year, spectators declared. Plenty of sparkling hurling by the pitching aces and good support by their teammates featured the game.

The score by innings:
Glenview 0 0 0 1 1 1 0 0 x-3

Antioch and Lake Villa teams will perform at Waukegan next Sunday in "W" park, formerly Electric park, in the fourth game of a series this season. Antioch has been victor in two games, while Lake Villa has copped one. Should Lake Villa win Sunday's game another game will have to be played, probably at the same park. Davidson and Kingsley are certain to start for Antioch and Bixby and Hollstein will start for Lake Villa. Preparations are being made to handle two thousand fans. The game starts at 2 o'clock standard time.

Award Contract for Hainesville-Round Lake Road

Following a long drawn out squabble between the county highway department and George R. Wade, contractor, the department on Thursday awarded a contract for the paving of the Hainesville-Round Lake road to contractor E. H. Merrick for $54,000, and State's Attorney Smith was instructed to start suit against the Massachusetts Bonding Company for $3,000 on Wade's bidders bond.

When the contract for the work was let to Wade some time ago the bonding company, which had issued a bidders' bond, refused to issue the contractor's bond. The highway department took up the matter with the bonding company and when they failed to come to any terms the department re-advertised the work and let the contract to Mr. Merrick. When the bonding company learned that the county was going to take that action they notified the department that they would issue the bond. The department, having already made other arrangements went through with the new contract with Merrick. The bidders' bond is for $3,000. For which the county will bring suit.

The Merrick bid does not include cement, the county already having the cement purchased and stored.

SNOW BALL DANCE AT SYLVAN BEACH

Saturday evening of this week there will be a snow ball dance at the Sylvan Beach pavilion at the north end of Channel Lake. The weekly special dancing parties are proving very popular with the vacation pleasure-seekers.

Firemen's Festival Will Be Held This Afternoon

All is set for the Antioch Firemen's Festival to be held this afternoon and evening. Activities will start at one o'clock on Main street with a water fight between the firemen with a 38-pound pressure hose. Other events will follow immediately, including the slow race for autos and the obstacle race for autos. A big street parade will take place at 2:15, starting at the Grade School and proceeding to the Antioch baseball park where races and games will be held. Clay pigeon shooting will also be staged.

A baseball game will be played between Lake Villa and Antioch home talent teams.

The Palatine Boy Scout band, consisting of twenty-three pieces, will furnish the music for the afternoon. This band was organized by Rev. Pollock during his stay in that city. They gave a concert in Antioch last summer and displayed wonderful talent.

In the evening there will be a dance at the Antioch Sales and Service station. The music will be furnished by McCormick's orchestra.

The entire proceeds of the day will be donated to help pay for the recently purchased fire truck.

TAG DAY NETS WORKERS $200

The Woman's Club of Antioch held its annual Tag Day Saturday, Aug. 18, under the auspices of the Library and Boy Scout committee of the club. The net proceeds of the day were $200, which is to be equally divided between the library fund and the Boy Scout fund. The success of the day's work is due to the seven girls from the seventh grade, who untiringly "tagged" all day long. Also to the Boy Scouts, who took over the evening tagging, and a number of the non-resident members of the Woman's Club of Antioch who "tagged" around their homes at the lakes.

Mr. Cecchini of the Bluff Lake resort kindly took part of the work on his shoulders, taking a box and "tagging" around his vicinity. A vote of thanks is extended by the committee in charge to all who assisted.

NEW FILLING STATION IS NOW COMPLETED

The new filling station on Main and Johnson streets was completed the early part of the week and is one of the most beautiful in the county. It is white and decorated in red and blue. The street is lighted with ornamental post lamps, and the land has been leveled and planted with lawn seed. There is a runway for autos whereby the greasing and mechanical work under the cars may be made. H. Trieger is in charge of the new station.

WED AT WAUKEGAN

Saturday morning, Aug. 18, at 11 o'clock, Anna Catherine Christensen and James Lyman Thain were united in marriage at the First Baptist church at Waukegan, Ill., by the Rev. Ganster. After the ceremony the bride and groom left by automobile for a two weeks' honeymoon.

Those attending the ceremony were the brides sister Camilla Christensen, and her two brothers, Albert and Norman Christensen. The young couple will make their home at Millburn.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHURCH PICNIC

The Methodist Sunday School and Church will hold their annual picnic at the Addison Felter place on Lake Catherine Tuesday of next week. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited, including all parents and all other members of the Sunday school scholars, the families of the Cradle Roll babies, and of home department members, and all others who would like to have a good time with the folks that day. All will meet at the church and be ready to start at 10 o'clock sharp. Transportation will be provided.

HOLD COMMUNITY SALE AT PIKEVILLE CORNERS

There will be a community sale on Saturday, Aug. 25, commencing at 1 o'clock, at Pikeville Corners. There will be placed on sale cattle, horses, farm machinery, household goods, etc. Anyone may bring any article he wishes to dispose of and it will be sold to the highest bidder. L. J. Slocum is in charge of the auctioneering.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, August 20, 1903

W. R. Williams was transacting business in Chicago Wednesday.

Miss Addie Shaffer left for Chicago on Monday and will spend the week there gathering fall millinery styles.

David Lightner, who has been confined to the house since July 22, is able to sit up a short time each day, and hopes are entertained that he will soon be able to be about.

The News office has installed a new telephone and are now connected with the Bristol Telephone company and connecting lines. We invite all subscribers to call us up if they know of any item that would be of interest, or if they have friends or relatives visiting them.

Miss Grace Judd of Kenosha is visiting with Antioch relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Grice were Kenosha visitors on Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Powles and children of Union Grove are the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Powles.

Mrs. Balstrow, who has been spending the summer at this place, returned to her home in St Paul on Wednesday. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Lula Mack.

After spending three months in Withee, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson returned to Antioch last week.

Prof. W. L. Rankin of Carroll College, Waukesha, spent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. G. Watson.

Eugene Hawkins left on Tuesday for a ten days trip to South Dakota, where he will visit with his father.

Mr. Charles Barber and wife of Elgin, spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barber.

Mrs. John Hancock returned Thursday from Withee, Wis., where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. R. M. Hayes.

On Thursday afternoon of last week the resorters at Channel Lake decorated themselves and turnouts with flags, bunting and flowers and made a parade through out streets to the depot to meet Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Richardson, who were to arrive on the afternoon train, they having been in Europe for some time. The parade was on the circus order. There was Uncle Sam at the head of the procession on horseback, the clown, the band wagon containing the musicians who rendered "The Good Old Summer Time," and several other selections, which was followed by the Goddess of Liberty and many carriages containing the typical circus features. Upon the arrival of the train an address of welcome was tendered and responded to by Mr. Richardson in his pleasant and agreeable way. On the return trip Mr. Richardson rode at the head of the procession in a cart bearing the inscription, "Hall to the Chief." The parade was a creditable one and reflects on those who participated and had the affair in charge.

Trevor Happenings

Mr. Vogler of the firm of Vogler & Schillo, Chicago, was looking after their interest at the pickle factory Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bushing entertained their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown and son Edwin of Grand Haven, Mich., and Mrs. Orson Watson and son Raymond of Edgewater, Ill., on Wednesday.

Mrs. Wayne Bush of Detroit, Mich., spent Tuesday and Wednesday calling on Trevor friends.

Mrs. Josephine Bolton returned to Racine Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Phleger, who spent the last of the week with her mother.

Mr. Larvanduskie had his car badly damaged on Wednesday by being run into by a touring car.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Filson and children autoed to Dixon, Ill., on Saturday to visit a sister and brother of the former.

Woman's Club Entertains Summer Guests at Channel Lake Club

On Thursday of last week the Antioch Woman's Club gave a most delightful luncheon and card party at the Channel Lake Country Club, the occasion being principally for the entertainment of the non-resident members from around the lake region, who number about twenty.

Mrs. Herbert Vos proved a most efficient chairman and with the gracious help of her committee, who did the serving, a most appetizing luncheon was enjoyed by each and every one. The newly appointed president, Mrs. Darby, being out of town for the summer, the club members were received on the open cement platform adjoining the club house, by the past president, Mrs. Warriner, and the new vice-president, Mrs. Hughes, and introductions and friendly greetings were exchanged.

When the summons came to enter the club house, we found fifteen beautifully set tables, seating four each, and place cards arranged so that two resident and two non-resident members were located at each table, a happy thought to promote better acquaintance.

During the lunch hour the ladies were delightfully entertained by Miss Osler of New York, who is spending the summer at Cross Lake. She gave us many piano interludes, songs, and two or three planologues and showed wonderful talent in all that she did.

After the last course had been served, Mrs. Vos introduced Mrs. Hughes, who welcomed the members in the name of the absent president, and a short outline was given of what the club was planning for the coming winter. Following Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Warriner gave a very splendid report of the work accomplished by the club during the past year, all of which was most interesting to the non-resident members who are not here to participate in any of the winter activities.

On behalf of those members Mrs. Charles W. Laffin of Channel Lake thanked the resident members and especially the officers and committee in charge, for the gracious and generous manner in which they had been entertained.

The afternoon concluded with progressive games of "bridge" and "500" and prizes were won by Mrs. Anderson (Leila Williams), Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Hardcastle, Mrs. Ernest Brook, Mrs. Osmond, and Mrs. Keulman.

On Friday, Aug. 31st the non-resident members of the Woman's Club are planning a benefit card party at the Channel Lake Country Club to help raise funds for the Antioch library and the Boy Scouts, and a large attendance is hoped for. Tickets may be procured at Webb's Racket Store, or at the club house on the day of the card party.

To those who are not keeping in touch with the affairs of the Channel Lake Country Club, it may be of interest to know that since their opening party on June 30th, the club parties have always had a full attendance and the members and their guests have shown the keenest appreciation of the opportunities offered.

Work on the golf links is going on continuously and a beautiful course is anticipated, but as that part of the work was not ready for play this season, the club house activities have been made the chief point of interest. Dances have been held every Saturday.

MISS M'NEIL AND JOHN MORLEY WED

Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock, occurred the marriage of Miss Genevieve McNeil of Ingleside to John J. Morley, Jr., The Rev. Fr. Lynch performed the ceremony. Miss Phyllis Morley, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Francis McNeil, brother of the bride, was the best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home at Ingleside, after which the young couple left for a ten-days trip, and upon their return they will make their home at Clinton, Mich., where the groom has a home all prepared for the reception of his bride, after September 1.

Miss McNeil is the daughter of Mr. John McNeil of Ingleside and the groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Morley of Antioch.

Mr. Morley has charge of the athletic department of the Clinton high school.

Their many friends are extending congratulations.

day night with one of the finest orchestras from Chicago, and the ball room is always crowded. On Tuesday the ladies are having a tournament auction bridge game with an average attendance of 15 tables each week. Light refreshments are served by special committees appointed each week by the chairman, and from the proceeds of the admission fee, the ladies are helping to furnish the club house. So far they have bought the dishes and silver as well as some of the other needed items. All those who have attended the card parties and the dances are most enthusiastic over the community spirit which has been aroused, and many guests have sought membership in the club after seeing the advantages offered. The wise ones will come in this year before the membership fee advances, as it will after January 1st. A temporary four-hour course has been opened for play and one of the best golf experts in this part of the country is on the links all the time, not only overseeing the work as it goes on, but is also giving lessons in the art of playing.

ECK LEWIS' APPLE TREE IN BLOOM

Eck Lewis' pet apple tree failed to show any signs of the regular routine of producing apples this season and Eck became somewhat peeved at all his neighbors having plenty of apples on their trees, while all he had was leaves. But it seems the severe storm of the past week disturbed the tree from its slumber, as the early part of this week it began to blossom and now the tree is in full bloom. Eck figures he ought to have apples several weeks after Christmas.

TO WRITE ARTICLES REGARDING FARMING

C. L. Kutil, the teacher who will have charge of the agriculture class at the high school this year, will write a series of articles during the school year. The articles will be devoted to the interest of farming "in all its branches." Mr. Kutil has had a great deal of experience in the writing of these articles and they should prove interesting to local readers. The first of his articles is printed in this week's issue. Read it.

Mr. Kutil will be glad to answer any problems that the farmer has found difficult. You can get in touch with him at the high school or at his residence.

Methodist Episcopal Church News

Excellent attendance last Sunday, and exceptionally deep spiritual interest in the services. Thus transformations come into the lives of the people. God is working. There can be no doubt that there is a steady gain by the forces of God in the community.

The annual Sunday school and church picnic will be held Tuesday of next week. Everybody will gather at the church and be ready to start at 10:00 o'clock sharp. Transportation will be provided. The picnic will be held at the Addison Felter place on Lake Catherine.

All members and friends of the church, whether members of the Sunday school or not, are invited. The entire family of each Sunday school scholar is invited. Also the parents and families of the Cradle Roll and all the members of the home department and their families. We want everybody there. Visitors are welcome. A committee will see that ample provision is made for the dinner. Another committee will have all plans in hand for the games and other entertainment that everybody may have a good time.

Next Sunday morning the Women's Foreign Missionary society will have charge of the service at the regular church hour, presenting a program of information and inspiration for that work. It is the occasion of the annual thank offering, and each one is asked so far as possible to contribute to it. No contributions are doing better or finer work than this fund.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS ON SEPTEMBER 4

Registration of Pupils Will Be Held on Friday August 31

OUTLINE THE STUDIES

The high school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 4. It is expected that there will be a fair increase in the enrollment this year.

Registration day will be on Friday, August 31. All students are urged to come to the building for a few minutes that day to arrange programs. An effort will be made to give those who register on Friday the subjects they wish to take. The ones who come later must follow the program worked out on Friday.

In many instances it will be advisable for parents to accompany freshmen on registration day in order that courses may be explained and a plan for the four years tentatively worked out. In case the pupil can only spend one or two years in high school changes in the regular schedule are likely advisable.

All freshmen will be required to take English, algebra and general science unless special arrangements are made. In addition to these, the boys may take either agriculture or latin. The girls may take either cooking or latin.

All sophomores will take English and geometry. Two additional subjects may be selected from the following list: Farm mechanics, manual training, sewing, design, Caesar, ancient history.

The subjects open to juniors are: English, European history, advanced algebra, latin I, mechanical drawing, farm mechanics, Cicero, shorthand and typewriting and physics.

Those open to seniors are: English, American history chemistry, economics and civics, Caesar, Cicero, mechanical drawing, farm mechanics, shorthand and typewriting.

Pupils are advised to take only four subjects, but in case the pupil has previous high averages he may take five by securing the consent of the principal.

The following half credit subjects will be offered this year: Music appreciation, public speaking, debating, bookbinding, art metal work, vocational guidance.

For college preparation the pupil should have four years of English, two or three years of mathematics, two years of science.

STELLAR CAST
PLAYS "JAVA HEAD"

With a stellar cast seldom seen in a motion picture, George Melford's latest production, "Java Head" a picturization of Joseph Hergeshelm's celebrated novel will be given an unusually fine presentation by Manager Johnson at the Majestic theatre on next Saturday and Sunday.

"Java Head" is a photoplay of exceptional heart interest and appeal. The scenes are laid in China and in old Salem town in the late forties, and the story deals with the trials and fortunes of a young sea captain and a Chinese girl of high station, whom he marries in order to save her life at the hands of assassins. He brings his bride to his home town, where his old sweetheart is awaiting him. His interest in his Chinese wife lapses and when the latter awakens love in the heart of an opium smoker dramatic developments ensue. The finale of the story, dramatic and tense, makes "Java Head" one of the strongest screen attractions produced in many a day.

Leatrice Joy, whose work in "Man-slaughter" won her much praise, plays the colorful role of "Taou Yen" the Chinese wife. Jacqueline Logan is seen as Nettie Vollar and Albert Roscoe plays Gerrit Ammidon, the leading male role.

Raymond Hatton has the chief character role that of an opium smoker and George Fawcett has the part of Barzil Dunsack, an old sea captain.

This story by Joseph Hergeshelm has been given an authentic and elaborate background. The first scenes were taken in Salem, Mass., where the story was laid and all the sites spoken of in the novel were transformed into their 1850 style by Rudolph Bylock and his technical staff. After finishing work in Salem the company returned to the Paramount Long Island studio, where the colorful Chinese scenes were filmed.

'JAVA HEAD'

Featuring Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton

Which girl wins your heart? Lovely Leatrice Joy as the charming Chinese bride of the bold young American who saved her life. Pretty Jacqueline Logan as the Yankee "girl he left behind him," ready to die rather than give him up. When they meet face to face, rivals in love—all the seductive lure of the Orient, the tang of the storm-swept sea, the picturesque charm of Old Salem in the glorious clipper-ship days—it's all in this beautiful romance.

DOROTHY DALTON in

"DARK SECRETS"

Rich, reckless, beautiful—the world at her feet—then suddenly helpless under the fascinating power of a man she hated. That's Dorothy Dalton in this powerful love story of Broadway lights and Oriental shadows.

Comedy—"The Kick in High Life," also Fun from the Press."

Zelpha Osler will preside at the piano each night

Assessment Roll

Publishers Note: The tax report of the towns of Lake Villa and Newport will be published in the following issue of The Antioch News.

The following is a correct list of all the real estate and personal property in the town of Antioch, (Township 46, Range 9), County of Lake and State of Illinois, as determined and assessed by the assessors of said township for the year 1923, and the assessed value thereon (which is one half of the full value) or as the same has been changed by the Supervisor of Assessments of Lake County, and prepared and published by him as required by law, to-wit:

"Well, Miss Hammond, isn't it about time?" he asked. There was weariness, dignity, even reproach in his question. "The fact of that Mexican's presence here in your house ought to prove to you the nature of the case. These vaqueros, these guerrillas, have found out you won't stand for any fighting on the part of your men. Don Carlos is a sneak, a coward, yet he's not afraid to hide in your own house. He has learned you won't let your cowboys hurt anybody. He's taking advantage of it. He'll rob, burn, and make off with you. He'll murder, too,

"Stewart, I Forbid You to Fight, Unless in Self-Defense."

If it falls his way. These Greasers use knives in the dark. So I ask—Isn't it about time we stop him?"

"Stewart, I forbid you to fight, unless in self-defense. I forbid you."

"What I mean to do is self-defense. Haven't I tried to explain to you that just now we've wild times along this stretch of border? Must I tell you again that Don Carlos is hand and glove with the revolution? The rebels are crazy to stir up the United States. You are a woman of prominence. Don Carlos would make off with you. If he got you, what little matter to cross the border with you? Well, where would the hue and cry go? Through the troops along the border! To New York! To Washington! Why, it would mean what the rebels are working for—United States intervention. In other words, war!"

"Oh, surely you exaggerate!" she cried.

"Maybe so. But I'm beginning to see the Don's game. And, Miss Hammond, it's awful for me to think what you'd suffer if Don Carlos got you over the line. I know these low-caste Mexicans. I've been among the peons—the slaves."

"Stewart, don't let Don Carlos get me," replied Madeline, in sweet directness.

She saw him shake, saw his throat swell as he swallowed hard, saw the hard fierceness return to his face.

"I won't. That's why I'm going after him."

"But I forbade you to start a fight deliberately."

"Then I'll go ahead and start one without your permission." He shook off her hand and strode forward.

"Please, don't go!" she called, beseechingly. But he kept on. "Stewart!"

She ran ahead of him, intercepted him, faced him with her back against the door. He swept out a long arm as if to brush her aside. But it wavered and fell. Haggard, troubled, with working face, he stood before her.

"It's for your sake," he expostulated.

"Let me out, Miss Hammond. I'm going to take the boys and go after these guerrillas."

"No!"

"Good Heavens!" exclaimed Stewart.

"Why not let me go? It's the thing to do. I'm sorry to distress you and your guests. Why not put an end to Don Carlos' badgering? Is it because you're afraid a rumpus will spoil your friends' visit?"

"It isn't—not this time."

"Then it's the idea of a little shooting at these Greasers?"

"No."

"You're sick to think of a little Greaser blood staining the halls of your home?"

"No."

"Well, then, why keep me from doing what I know is best?"

"Stewart, I—I—" she faltered, in growing agitation. "I'm frightened—confused. All this is too—too much for me. I'm not a coward. If you have to fight you'll see I'm not a coward. But your way seems so reckless—that hall is so dark—the guerrillas would shoot from behind doors. You're so wild, so daring, you'd rush right into peril. Is that necessary? I think—I mean—I don't know just why I feel so—so about you doing it. But I believe it's because I'm afraid you—you might be hurt."

"You're afraid I—I might be hurt?" he echoed, wondering, the hard whiteness of his face warming, flushing, glowing.

"Yes."

The single word, with all it might mean, with all it might not mean, softened him as if by magic, made him gentle, amazed, shy as a boy, stifling under a torrent of emotions.

Madeline thought she had persuaded him—worked her will with him. Then another of his startlingly sudden moves told her that she had reckoned too quickly. This move was to put her firmly aside so he could pass; and Madeline, seeing he would not hesitate to lift her out of the way, surrendered the door. He turned on the threshold. His face was still working, but the flame-pointed gleam of his eyes indicated the return of that cowboy ruthlessness.

"I'm going to drive Don Carlos and his gang out of the house," declared Stewart. "I think I may promise you to do it without a fight. But if it takes a fight, off he goes!"

CHAPTER XIV

The Mountain Trail.

As Stewart departed from one door Florence knocked upon another; and Madeline, far shaken out of her usual serenity, admitted the cool western girl with more than gladness. Just to have her near helped Madeline to get back her balance. She was conscious of Florence's sharp scrutiny, then of a sweet, deliberate change of manner. Florence might have been burning with curiosity to know more about the bandits hidden in the house, the plans of the cowboys, the reason for Madeline's suppressed emotion; but instead of asking Madeline questions she introduced the important subject of what to take on the camping trip. For an hour they discussed the need of this and that article, selected those things most needful, and then packed them in Madeline's duffle-bags.

That done, they decided to lie down, fully dressed as they were in riding costume, and sleep, or at least rest, the little remaining time left before the call to saddle. Madeline turned out the light and, peeping through her window, saw dark forms standing sentinel-like in the gloom. When she lay down she heard soft steps on the path. This fidelity to her swelled her heart, while the need of it presaged that fearful something which, since Stewart's passionate appeal to her, haunted her as inevitable.

Madeline did not expect to sleep, yet she did sleep, and it seemed to have been only a moment until Florence called her. She followed Florence outside. She could discern saddled horses being held by cowboys. There was an air of hurry and mystery about the departure. Helen, who came tiptoeing out with Madeline's other guests, whispered that it was like an escape. She was delighted. The others were amused. To Madeline it was indeed an escape. She heard low voices, the clamping of bits and thumping of hoofs, and she recognized Stewart when he led up Majesty for her to mount. Then came a pattering of soft feet and the whirling of dogs. Cold noses touched her hands, and she saw the long, gray, shaggy shapes of her pack of Russian wolf-hounds. That Stewart meant to let them go with her was indicative of how he studied her pleasure. She loved to be out with the hounds and her horse.

Stewart led Majesty out into the darkness past a line of mounted horses.

"Guess we're ready," he said. "I'll make the count." He went back along the line, and on the return Madeline heard him say several times, "Now, everybody ride close to the horse in front, and keep quiet till daylight." Then the snorting and pounding of the big black horse in front of her told Madeline that Stewart had mounted.

"All right, we're off," he called.

Madeline lifted Majesty's bridle and let the roan go. The trail led in a roundabout way through shallow gullies full of stone and brush washed down by floods. At every turn now Madeline expected to come upon water and the waiting pack-train. But time passed, and miles of climbing, and no water or horses were met. Expectation in Madeline gave place to desire; she was hungry.

Stewart kept on. It was eight o'clock by Madeline's watch when, upon turning into a wide hollow, she saw horses grazing on spare grass, a great pile of canvas-covered bundles, and a fire round which cowboys and two Mexican women were busy.

Madeline sat her horse and reviewed her followers as they rode up single file.

Her guests were in merry mood, and they all talked at once.

"Breakfast—and rustle," called out Stewart, without ceremony.

For that matter, Madeline observed Helen did not show any marked contrast to the others. The hurry order did not interfere with the meal being somewhat in the nature of a picnic.

As soon as the pack-train was in readiness Stewart started it off in the lead to break trail. A heavy growth of shrub interspersed with rock and cactus covered the slopes; and now all the trail appeared to be uphill. The pack-train forged ahead, and the trailing couples grew farther apart. At noon they got out of the foothills to face the real ascent of the mountains.

Stewart waited for Madeline, and as she came up he said: "We're going to have a storm. Shall I call a halt and make camp?"

"Here? Oh no! What do you think best?"

"Well, if we have a good healthy thunderstorm it will be something new for your friends. I think we'd be wise to keep on the go. There's no place to make a good camp. If it rains, let it rain. The pack outfit is well covered. We will have to get wet."

"Surely," replied Madeline; and she smiled at his inference. She knew what a storm was in that country, and her guests had yet to experience one. "If it rains, let it rain."

Stewart rode on, and Madeline followed. The way led in a winding course through a matted, storm-wrenched forest of stunted trees. Even up to this elevation the desert reached with its gaunt hand. The clouds overspreading the sky, hiding the sun, made a welcome change. The pack-train rested, and Stewart and Madeline waited for the party to come up. Here he briefly explained to her that Don Carlos and his bandits had left the ranch some time in the night. The air grew oppressive; the horses panted.

"Sure it'll be a hummer," said Stewart. "The first storm almost always is bad. I can feel it in the air."

The air, indeed, seemed to be charged with a heavy force that was waiting to be liberated.

One by one the couples mounted to the cedar forest, and the feminine contingent declaimed eloquently for rest. But there was to be no permanent rest until night and then that depended upon reaching the crags. The pack-train waggled onward, and Stewart fell in behind. The storm-center gathered slowly around the peaks; low rumble and bowl of thunder increased in frequency; slowly the light shaded as smoky clouds rolled up; the air grew sultrier, and the exasperating breeze puffed a few times and then failed.

Immovable as Stone, He Sat His Horse, Dark-Faced, Dark-Eyed, and Like an Indian Unconscious of Thought.

An hour later the party had climbed high and was rounding the side of a great bare ridge that long had hidden the crags. The last burro of the pack-train plodded over the ridge out of Madeline's sight. She looked backward down the slope, amused to see her guests change wearily from side to side in their saddles. Far below lay the cedar flat and the foothills. Far to the west the sky was still clear, with shafts of sunlight shooting down from behind the encroaching clouds.

Stewart reached the summit of the ridge and, though only a few rods ahead, he waved to her, sweeping his hand round to what he saw beyond. It was an impressive gesture, and Madeline, never having climbed as high as this, anticipated much.

Majesty surmounted the last few steps and, snorting, halted beside Stewart's black. To Madeline the scene was as if the world had changed. The ridge was a mountain-top. It dropped before her into a black, stonier, shrub-patched, many-canyoned gulf. Massed ink clouds were piling across the peaks, obscuring the highest ones. A fork of white lightning flashed, and, like the booming of an avalanche, thunder followed.

Madeline glanced at Stewart. He had forgotten her presence. Immovable as stone, he sat his horse, dark-faced, dark-eyed, and, like an Indian unconscious of thought, he watched and waited. To see him thus, to divine the strange affinity between the soul of this man, become primitive, and the savage environment that had developed him, were powerful helps to Madeline Hammond in her strange desire to understand his nature.

A cracking of iron-shod hoofs behind her broke the spell. Monty had reached the summit.

"Gene, what it won't all be done in a minute Moses himself couldn't tell," observed Monty.

Then Dorothy climbed to his side and looked.

"Oh, isn't it just perfectly lovely!" she exclaimed. "But I wish it wouldn't storm. We'll all get wet."

Once more Stewart faced the ascent, keeping to the slow heave of the ridge as it rose southward toward the looming spires of rock. Soon he was off smooth ground, and Madeline, some rods behind him, looked back with concern at her friends. Here the real toil, the real climb began, and a mountain storm was about to burst in all its fury.

The sky grew blacker; the slow-gathering clouds appeared to be suddenly agitated; they piled and rolled and mushroomed and obscured the crags. The air moved heavily and seemed to be laden with sulphurous smoke, and sharp lightning flashes began to play. A distant roar of wind could be heard between the peals of thunder.

Stewart waited for Madeline under the lee of a shelving cliff, where the cowboys had halted the pack-train. Majesty was sensitive to the flashes of lightning. Madeline patted his neck and softly called to him. The weary burros nodded; the Mexican women covered their heads with their mantles. Stewart untied the slicker at the back of Madeline's saddle and helped her on with it. Then he put on his own. The other cowboys followed suit. Presently Madeline saw Monty and Dorothy rounding the cliff, and hoped the others would come soon.

A blue-white, knotted rope of lightning burned down out of the clouds, and instantly a thunder-clap crashed, seeming to shake the foundations of the earth. This moment of the breaking of the storm, with the strange growing roar of wind, like a moaning monster, was pregnant with a heart-disturbing emotion for Madeline Hammond. Glorious it was to be free, healthy, out in the open, under the shadow of the mountain and cloud, in the teeth of the wind and rain and storm.

Suddenly, as the ground quaked under her horse's feet, and all the sky grew black and crisscrossed by flaming streaks, and between thunderous reports there was a strange hollow roar sweeping down upon her, she realized how small was her knowledge and experience of the mighty forces of nature.

With blacker gloom and deafening roar came the torrent of rain. It was a cloud-burst. It was like solid water tumbling down. For long Madeline sat her horse, head bent to the pelting rain. When its force lessened and she heard Stewart call for all to follow, she looked up to see that he was starting once more. She turned her horse into his trail.

Rain fell steadily. The fury of the storm, however, had passed, and the roll of thunder diminished in volume. The air had wonderfully cleared and was growing cool. Madeline began to feel uncomfortably cold and wet. Stewart was climbing faster than formerly, and she noted that Monty kept at her heels, pressing her on. Time had been lost, and the camp-site was a long way off. The stag-hounds began to lag and get footsore. The sharp rocks of the trail were cruel to their feet. Then, as Madeline began to tire, she noticed less and less around her. Her horse climbed and climbed, and brush and sharp corners of stone everlastingly pulled and tore at her wet garments. A gray gloom settled down around her. Night was approaching.

Stewart's horse was on a jog-trot now, and Madeline left the trail more to Majesty than to her own choosing.

As black night began to envelop her surroundings, she marked that the fir trees had given place to pine forest. Suddenly a pin-point of light pierced the ebony blackness. It grew larger. Black tree-trunks crossed her line of vision. The light was a fire. She heard a cowboy song and the wild chorus of a pack of coyotes. Stewart's tall figure, with sombrero slouched down, was now and then outlined against a growing circle of light. And by the aid of that light she saw him turn every moment or so to look back, probably to assure himself that she was close behind.

With a prospect of fire and warmth, and food and rest, Madeline's enthusiasm revived. What a climb! There was promise in this wild ride and lonely trail and hidden craggy height, not only in the adventure her friends yearned for, but in some nameless joy and spirit for herself.

VERY few persons in America live in the same city or town in which their parents or grandparents lived. Unlike the Europeans who are rooted to their soil we are a nomadic people.

But we think with fondness of our parents and our old homes, and as often as we can, we jump on the train or crank up the "flivver" and go home for a visit. This is as it should be.

But there is no need of being out of touch with the home folks in the long intervals. The Bell wires reach your home town. There is a telephone in the old home. Nearly everybody has one nowadays. USEFUL FACTS ABOUT OUR SERVICE

Take the Discount on Your Light Bills

Every few cents saved means that your electric light costs just that much less. When your bill comes in, mark down a date for payment at least two days before discount elapses. This is the safest plan. Something might happen to prevent your coming into the office on the last day, or the mail bearing your check might be delayed.

We allow ten days for taking the discount — ten days from date bill is mailed to you. Your bill should be received about the same time each month. Your meter is read about the same time each month.

If your bill is delayed, and you do not get the full ten days' discount period, it may be incorrectly addressed. Examine the envelope and make sure we have your name and street number correct on our books.

Of Interest to Antioch Farmers

Timely topics and local news, concerning stockmen, poultrymen, gardeners and dairymen. Edited by C. L. KUTIL

"GLAD TO MEET YOU."

This space will be devoted to articles on modern farming and agricultural news of local interest. Mr. C. L. Kutil, Smith-Hughes instructor in agriculture at the Antioch Township High School, is to take charge of this column, and perhaps write a good many of the articles himself. Advice will be given to anyone for the asking. Call for Mr. Kutil at the high school, at his home, or write him. He will willingly consider your farm problems with you and help in any way possible.

BIDDY NEEDS A HOME

The first poultry house was a limb of a tall tree somewhere in India. The hen of those days laid from one to two dozen eggs in the spring and then took a vacation that ended the following spring. Their Illinois sisters roosting in trees can easily duplicate records of "Biddy from India." Hens that roost on Ford automobiles and blunder reels will do a little better, but to make a long story short, the present day farmer is no longer satisfied with the performance of hens under such conditions and he is trying to properly house his flock for the comfortable hen pays even better for her care than the dairy cow.

The first poultry houses in the Middle West were of logs with straw roofs. These were fairly good until the straw became infested with lice and mites. This again drove the hens to the trees as soon as it became warm enough.

The log house was followed by a building with a gable roof and with but a few small windows. It was dark, dirty and damp in them and after the hens laid a few eggs they usually froze their combs and refused to lay until spring.

To overcome the dampness and darkness, poultry men began building houses that were well ventilated and admitted plenty of light. Dryness is more important than warmth for egg production. Drafts must be avoided in poultry houses. A shed roof building 16 to 20 feet wide, 5 feet high in the rear and 9 feet in the front by 30 feet long will house a farm flock of 100 pullets and 50 to 75 hens. Such a flock can be made to pay in this locality.

A concrete floor underlaid with cinders or at least 6 inches of gravel will provide a dry floor. Some place a thickness of tar paper under the concrete to prevent water from rising and dampening the floor.

Ventilating windows can be made by placing cloth over the opening or using bafflers. These admit fresh dry air at all times and prevent drafts.

Under the roost should be a dropping board. Many diseases are spread by mixing the scratch feed with the droppings. Place the self feeder, water pan and grit and oyster shell boxes about a foot from the floor to insure sanitation. Always feed the scratch feed in a deep litter of clean straw on the floor.

The Chicago market reports eggs as steady. The Antioch local demand is excellent. Consider giving biddy some real comfort. It is not too early to build her home now.

Why Send Your Boy to School?

Somebody is going to farm these Antioch farms in the next generation and the best trained farmer will win out. Train your boy to be a leader in this community. You want him to be a leader, there is plenty of room for leadership on the farm. You want your boy to have financial success. Remember that other business hasn't been all profit. More young men fall in the cities than in the country. And above all remember that the "man who knows" gets the results in farming as well as in all other occupations.

The Farmer's Faithful Friend

ON THE FARMS in the 15 counties served by this Company are 216,050 horses, valued at $15,123,500. (U. S. Census 1920).

The farm horse has been the power upon which agricultural America has relied to prepare the land for planting and to cultivate and harvest the yield—the farmer's faithful friend.

Until the advance in power farming methods the horse was depended upon solely for the heaviest field work as well as for the lighter tasks and hauling.

The number of horses in this territory and their value are indicative of the great agricultural wealth which with other natural resources are back of the securities of this Company.

The Public Service Company furnishes services of a nature so essential to the agricultural, industrial and residential development of this territory, that the prosperity and future growth of Northern Illinois and the Company are interdependent.
